New Kitchen Tool Dances the Mango Tango

New Mango Knife Slices it's Way Into the Housewares Industry

Redding, CA, 10-1-07 – Van Vacter Products www.coolfoodtools.com, a gourmet kitchen tool line and division of Lassen Scientific, Inc. <http://www.wesellsuccess.com>, has just produced a brand new innovative Mango Knife! This amazing tool is by far the world's greatest mango tool available on the market, featuring its curved blade and ergonomic non-slip power handle.

Mangos are quite possibly the fastest growing craze in the fruit world today. Previously, Mango's were more of a chore than an enjoyment to eat because of the great difficulty of the treacherous pit inside. When cutting into a mango with the one dimensional tool or ordinary kitchen knife, the pit is so difficult to work around, that more often than not much of the expensive fruit goes to waste. With Van Vacter's brand new three in one mango tool, slicing and dicing this newly craved fruit is a snap! Its curved shape allows you to quickly and easily remove the pit of the mango, giving full access to preparing this fruit for any recipe.

What perhaps is most important in bringing a mango knife to Van Vacter's line is the nutritional value mangos possess. As common knowledge, eating five fruits and vegetables a day can help keep your body strong and healthy. Mango's definitely fit the qualifications for this requirement, and people across the world are taking advantage of the amazing taste of this fruit to fill this need their body has. According to the National Mango Board, mangos are rich with nutrients and 20 different types of vitamins such as A and C. Vitamin A is used to keep vision at its best and vitamin C is important to help build your immune system. To address these needs Van Vacter has created right tool to get the most out of these benefits.

Van Vacter Products has applied its expertise to a wide range of healthy foods following the baby boomer market wave. The new found realization of people across the world has resulted in a craze for healthy and even organic foods for preventative health. Van Vacter Products is catering to these needs by providing the best tools on the market for preparing the foods that will carry this healthy outlook on life into the next century.
